HIGH PRICES IN SWEDEN.

Groceries More Needed Than Anything Else Just Now.

We are told that the results of the great shipping agreement with the Entente will bring better times to Sweden. The happy effects will not appear for a while, however. Several big cargoes of grain have arrived from America, and oil for industry, and chemicals for agriculture. But what Sweden is looking for from the west is groceries. Groceries are the chief need.

The potato crop is excellent. There is a wide gap, however, between a dish of boiled potatoes and a satisfactory diet. Frequenters of hotels and restaurants can fare pretty well if they are prepared to pay high prices, but the rank and file of the population is up against hard times.

It is becoming increasingly clear that the middleman is responsible for many of their troubles. With only a small sugar allowance, honey has become a necessity. If fruit is not to be wasted, honey has been traced through six or eight pairs of hands, beginning in the villages and ending in the Stockholm stores. In the meantime it has increased fourfold in price.

Smoking "tobacco" of monstrosity is advertised, and enterprising countrymen advertise that packets of a suitable smoking mixture will be sent against cash remittance. Pigaro declares that only 25 per cent. of tobacco will now be used by the state monopoly.

Shopping becomes more and more of a hunt. There was no exaggeration in the recent picture of the old woman who said to her friend when she happened to meet on the street: "If Mr. Anderson will tell me where I can buy heroine I will tell him where he can buy cigars." Advertisements worded like this continually appear in the newspapers. Barter becomes ever larger. It has effected even the house and flat business. It is almost the exception now to see a house or flat advertised in Stockholm. What one sees is an offer to exchange a flat for a bigger or a smaller one somewhere else. The housing problem continues more acute than ever. The Swedish tailors' union has abolished all credit. It is only rich men who can order a suit from a tailor in these days. Thirty-five dollars a yard for cloth is nothing unusual. The same cloth cost $2.50 or $4 before the war, and, indeed, during the first year of war.

Moon Vines.

Why is it that one so seldom sees the cheery Japanese moon vine? On account of their rapid growth and luxuriant foliage, these plants make an effective curtain for a veranda, when planted in a row. Though but annuals, during the summer they will climb as high as 40 feet, if assisted with string ladders.

The big heart-shaped leaves form a soft background for the lovely, pure white disks that open their perfumed corollas only after the dew has fallen. The plants have a habit of wrapping everything they touch from the ground to the top of the tallest tree. But, if one is standing very near, he can hear faintly the sibilant snap made by the opening of the stick little umbrellas. Then the cool night breeze stirs up the delicate fragrance, carrying it out over the lawn for a considerable distance. Like their small cousins, the morning glories, the tender blossoms will not bear the full glare of the sun, for they droop and wilt. The vine blooms prolifically, however, and there are always fresh flowers to take their places the next night.

Drying Eggs in Berlin.

An interesting desiccating factory has been established in Berlin by the reicheisenwerkzeugmaschinenfabrik, to desiccate eggs by the Kraut system. By this method carefully selected eggs are broken and the white and yolks put into a whirling cylinder. The whirling mass is then put on to a revolving disk, making 100 revolutions a minute and converted into a fine spray, which is exposed to a current of warm air. This fine spray passes into a drying chamber and finally the substance is deposited as a yellow inodorous powder.

Large consignments of eggs from the Ukraine are being treated at this Berlin works, which deals with 5,000 eggs hourly. A factory working the same principle deals with three times as many eggs in Bucharest and more are to be established in Galicia, Poland and the Ukraine. By desiccating the eggs on the spot, the Germans expect to save considerably on the packing and carriage difficulties.

Shepherds of Elephants.

An elephant in his native land has a hard job to find what he likes to eat. Contrary to the general belief, he will not eat anything, but he selects carefully the best of roots, herbs, fruits and various vegetables. When in captivity, he can select the same kind of fodder, with a few exceptions, including barley, bread, and (chiefly peanuts) and some other or garden which may be offered to him. Elephants eat no kind of meat whatever; they will eat only pure-grown food or clean bread or barley.

Death From Accident.

One of the large casualty companies has prepared a compilation showing the percentage of deaths due to accident at different ages. Out of a total of 715,901 deaths embraced in the compilation, 21.1 per cent. were persons from fifteen to twenty-nine years old; 14.1 per cent. thirty to thirty-nine; 12.3 per cent. forty to forty-nine; 8 per cent. fifty to fifty-nine; and 4.7 per cent. sixty to sixty-nine.

Two Reasons.

In no examination, the question in re-examination was put: "Why will a pin not balance on its point?" One reply was: "Firstly, because a point being a line has no magnitude cannot stand upon what does not exist. Secondly, it will if you stick it in."

How Many Crowns for Your Honor Flag?

Of course every city, town and district will earn its Honor Flag.

But how about the crowns?

For every twenty-five per cent. in excess of its quota, each city, town and district will be entitled to add a crown to its flag.

Can you do fifty per cent. in excess of your quota—that means two crowns for your Honor Flag.

But double your quota and it means four crowns.

Hang a Flag in your hall, that for years to come will show that your city, town or district did better than well—

That it was a real factor in the huge success of CANADA'S VICTORY LOAN 1918.

LAYING HENS REQUIRE ANIMAL PROTEIN

For best egg yields hens need some animal protein supplement in connection with corn. Meat and tankage may be used for this purpose.

Hens fed 1.6 pounds of scrap in one feeding test produced an average of 33 eggs a year. Another lot given 11.6 of out scrap produced 141 eggs in the same time. The feed costing 19 cents a hen yielded a profit of 74 cents.

Tankage was a satisfactory substitute for meat scrap in the feed for laying hens in another test. While hens fed meat scrap with corn and bran laid 121 eggs per hen in 1 year, those fed tankage in place of meat scrap produced 122 eggs per hen at a slightly lower cost.

STORE NEED CORN NOW

Seed corn not gathered from standing corn should be selected husking time and stored in a dry room where good circulation is assured. The corn may be suspended from wire in a ventilated shed or attic. The bins should be closed only at or on rainy days. Artificial ventilation is essential in case the corn does not dry out well in winter. Corn not thoroughly dry will be injured by cold winter.

FUEL SUPPLY FREE

To Municipalities of the Province of Ontario

A view of the hardwood forests in the Algonquin Park

OWING to the seriousness of the fuel situation at the present time, the Government of Ontario would urge upon all the farmers or others who may have wood lots, to assist at this time by making provision for their fuel supply from such lots.

The Government would also draw the attention of the various Municipalities throughout the Province to the necessity of taking some Municipal action to secure fuel supply. To this end the Government has decided to issue to any Municipality in Ontario a permit to cut fire wood in Algonquin Park or from other Crown Lands free of charge. For particulars as to localities, conditions of cutting, etc., apply to

We had traveled afar in the distant lands,
But sweet was the homeward song.

We saw in the West the twilight plains
Where wheat is garnered in store;
To feed our boys on the battle front,
God bless them with more and more.

They are worthy indeed, the dear old boys,
Who fight for freedom and peace;
God help them along, may they never give up
Till enemies guns shall cease.

Till flags of Alliance shall float o'er the trench,
Now occupied by the Hun,
And victory perch on the battlefield
And hushed be the enemies guns.

Be valiant, my boys, for thousands of prayers
Ascend to Heaven for you,
From the family band, in the dear old land,
Then boys, be faithful and true.

Before you there lies a serious task
To put down a world wide foe,
Who would rule the world with an iron hand,
If only they could make it go.

They'd like to be rulers of earth, we know,
Would sacrifice all to be;
The great Prussian lords to rule all land,
And depots over the sea.

Look back on the records of last four years,
What tales of horror are told;
How Belgian women were treated like dogs
By captors so brutish and bold.

Would the neutral Nations like to be bought
Under the governing rod
Of the Hun, the Turk, and the Austrian powers?
Better be under the rod.

Fight on dear boys for the freedom of men,
For the day will surely come,
When right—not might—shall triumph o'er wrong,
And put down the Hun and rum.

Two ruthless enemies of mankind,
And as is the tale that is told,
Of the awful tragedies both have wrought,
Can history their doings unfold.

They are linked together in deeds of shame,
Which makes ones blood run cold
We listen to crimes that each have done,
But half can never be told.

Since those lines above were penned,
The battle has been won,
The Teutons have been chased away
And left behind their gun.

God the victory is ours,
Then let us praise His name,
And put to flight the Kaiser's son
Of Hohenzollern shame.

TO MY NEPHEW

On Flanders field where poppies blow
A brave young heart is lying low
Beneath the sod.
His soul went up on high
To meet his find.
From Flanders field

On Flanders field they fought so well
For humanity and right.
That God saw fit to call them home
In the midst of that awful strife.
With many another mother's son
On Flanders field he too.

At home a widowed mother sits
And weeps,
When she thinks of her brave young son.
Her heart is buried in a soldiers grave.
But she prays for strength to say,
Thy will be done.

The Canadian Angle

AN amusing bit on the effect of the new C. P. R. president's hat appears in the Chatham "News"—this effect being produced, doubtless, by the law of suggestion. The hat of Mr. Beatty is said to be tilted at a rakish angle; and the moment that this was found to be the case, the mimicry of that hat became a sacred duty on the part of the employees, according to the story.

In the good old days of Baron Shaughnessy, says the writer, the brisk and businesslike boy who delivers our C. P. R. pamphlets used to march into the office with his natty blue cap set square across his noble brow.

That cap was a fixture there. We got used to it. It seemed part of the established order of things. One could as easily imagine the boy pushing it to one side or the other, as one could imagine a breeze on the Nile upsetting the great Pyramid.

One day last week we got a shock. Into our office tripped the youngster with his cap tilted rakishly over his ear.

"What's the matter, kid?" we enquired. "Getting the hat?" "Nope," and he bristled out again without troubling to explain. But we have just discovered the truth.

Baron Shaughnessy used to wear his hat square across his forehead. But the new president of the C. P. R.—its first Canadian-born president—Mr. E. W. Beatty, invariably carries his chapane tilted at a rakish angle.

There are whispers going down the line that sedate firemen and brakemen and conductors all over the 12,600 miles and more of the C. P. R. are giving their headgear a shove to the east.

A commercial traveller through the West, who has escaped the fine, his system being too crowded with nicotine to give the germs even the tiniest foothold, mentioned to us just this morning that he had seen both boys in the C. P. R. hotels out there with their caps entirely off their heads and hanging from their ears, like pagan ornaments. He saw that it was more than one of the C. P. R. hotels; and what the effect may be if the new practice is prevalent throughout the thirteen C. P. R. caravansaries it is impossible to gauge.

Telegraph operators in the 12,600 offices of the C. P. R. Telegraphs have been widely affected by the new movement in hats. The workmen in the great Angus car shops at Montreal, and in the C. P. R. shops at Winnipeg and Calgary, show, it is said, scarcely one piece of headgear that retains the old Shaughnessy level. The Beatty angle is the thing now. Even the chaps associated with the Canadian Pacific Ocean Services (transporting one of the largest passenger fleets in the world), with the C. P. R. western lands with their great $17,000,000 irrigation scheme and ready-made farms, and with its mining and smelting interests of C. P. R. on the Pacific Coast—the men linked up with these C. P. R. subsidiaries have yielded. It is said to the lure of the "tied cap."

It is even whispered that a few of the older locomotives with the whirring steam smokestacks of the village of 1925 have taken to waving their battered crowns a bit to one side.

We asked the kid about it this morning, when he came in waving his cap at an even Beatty angle and then yesterday. "Do you really expect to be president?" of the C. P. R. some day? "Every fellow's got a chance," he rejoined. "But," we explained, "Mr. Beatty went to Toronto University and studied law, and—"

"That's just it," he said. "He was only a lawyer to start with and but what he done—just through waving his cap like this. Don't try to tell me I ain't got a chance—and he ain't starting at the bottom rung and working up." "But," we urged, impatiently, "It's better to be right than to be president." "Yea," said the kid, "and he's a householder better to be both."

He gave the corner of his cap a jerk, and was off.

Baronville company of the regiment. He afterwards transferred to the 129th Westworth Battalion, training at Bradford, and later took an officers' course at Toronto. Some time later he enlisted with the 2nd Central Ontario regiment, going overseas in February last to train at Sault Ste. Marie in machine gunnery. Pte. Millard went to France early in July, attached to one of the machine gun sections of the 4th division, and although full particulars as to his death have not been received, it is presumed he was killed in action in the vicinity of Cambrai. Much sympathy is felt for Mr. and Mrs. W. S. Millard, his father and mother, his sister, Miss Elsie, and his wife, (a daughter of Mr. and Mrs. J. E. Henry) to whom he was married in October, 1917. Pte. Millard, who was but thirty years of age, had a most promising future before him, but realizing his duty to his country, he insisted on taking his part. He was very well known in his home district and the vicinity of Grimsby, and was a regular attendant and worker in St. John's church, Winona.

Farmers Must Not Buy Coal Without a Permit

Toronto, October 24, 1934.
W. W. Allen, Secy.,
Fuel Commission,
North Grimsby.

Dear Sir:—

The question has frequently been brought to our attention as to the supply of anthracite coal to farmers. We are using our best endeavors to procure coal for everyone in the Province, but it seems to us that the average farmer is in a much more fortunate position than the residents of cities, towns or villages. In that in case of emergency he is provided with some alternative means of obtaining fuel of some kind for heating purposes, whereas the residents of cities, towns or villages have to look to the coal dealer.

No farmer shall be supplied with anthracite coal until you have such consent to your local dealer, which, of course, in your case will not be done until you are absolutely satisfied that he is unable to procure any other fuel.

Yours very truly,
R. HOME SMITH,
Fuel Administrator for Ontario.
NOTE:—For any further information apply to Thomas W. Allen, Secy., Fuel Commission, North Grimsby.

No one who knew him need ever be told
A warmer heart death never made cold
No cheery ways and a smiling face,
No one can fill our dear Jack's place.

BIRTH

KORLEIGH—At Grimsby Centre, on Nov. 19, 1934, to Mr. and Mrs. Peter Korleigh, Jr., a daughter.

IN MEMORIAM

In loving memory of our dear son, Wm. Edwin Schwab, who was killed in action Oct. 8, 1916 at Regina Trench on the Somme. He proudly answered his country's call.

He gave his life to save us all. His heart was good, his spirit brave. His resting place a mother's grave.

Two years has passed, and how we miss him. That loved one sleeping over there. But yet we know we'll meet in Heaven, and all his glories with him share.

Greater love hath no man than that he lay down his life for his friends.
—Father and Mother.

To the Citizens of Grimsby

RE FUEL SUPPLY

The fuel situation is likely to be serious this winter according to reports received from the Ontario Fuel Controller it will be almost impossible for all our Citizens to get even 70 per cent of their normal requirements Hard Coal which is the quantity allowed to each householder owing to the Spanish Flu epidemic which is hampering the output of the mines and delaying transportation. It is however possible for our dealers to get soft or Cannel Coal, also Coke and I would advise all our Citizens to try to save their Hard Coal by using some other of these kinds, now, when the weather is mild.

Coke can be burned successfully in any furnace and produces a good heat but requires a little more attention than hard coal. This can be had now either of our dealers.

It will be impossible to get wood as there is none available around here at present.

The supply of hard coal at present is very limited.

Mr Eaton has just received a car of Buckwheat which is a small sizes of hard coal, which it is advised can be used to advantage along with the larger sizes of Hard Coal or for banking at night, fires made of coke or Soft Coal.

I have received advice from some families who had not received any coal these have

I have also received many letters from citizens, stating that they have only received a small percentage of their orders, these will receive first attention when our farther supply is received by the dealers.

It will be my endeavor to see that all coal received is fairly distributed among our Citizens having due regard at all times to those most in need. I solicit the Co-operation of all our citizens by each rising a fair proportion of the available kinds of coal so that all may have a share of the Hard Coal with our Coal Merchant.

THIS WEEK, NERVOUS MOTHER

Tells How Lydia E. Fickham's
Vegetable Compound
Restored Her Health.

Philadelphia, Pa.—"I was very weak, always tired, my back ached, and I felt sick most of the time. I went to a doctor and he said I had nervous indigestion, which added to my weak condition. I was worried most of the time—and he said if I could not stop that, I could not get well. I had been taking Lydia E. Fickham's Vegetable Compound for some time, and I felt it was a week and felt a little better. I kept it up for three months, and I feel fine and can eat anything now without distress or nervousness."—Mrs. J. WORTHING, 2822 North Taylor St., Philadelphia, Pa.

The majority of modern neuroses, however, there are so many demands upon their time and strength; the result is invariably a weakened, run-down, nervous condition with headaches, backache, irritability and depression—and soon more serious ailments develop. It is at such periods in life that Lydia E. Fickham's Vegetable Compound will restore a normal healthy condition, as it did to Mrs. Worthling.

NORMAN W. LAWSON WOUNDED IN THE LEFT ARM

On Saturday, Nov. 9th, Mr. and Mrs. J. E. Lawson, of North GRIMSBY, received word from Ottawa that their son Norman W. was wounded in the left arm, at Cambrai, on October 1st.

Norman Lawson, who was formerly on the The INDEPENDENT staff, enlisted in the 10th Battalion and went overseas in 1915. He was transferred to the 3rd Canadian Infantry Battalion and went to France on May 10th, 1916, and had been on the fighting line almost continuously up to the time he was wounded. As his wound is not reported serious, it is confidently hoped that he will in due time return to GRIMSBY, safely.

ANIMALS AT THE FRONT.

Wards and Benefits That Face Perils of War.

No stranger association ever existed than that of animal life at the front, as I was able to observe it on various sectors during the past winter. First of all, there is the rather delicate personal view-point, familiar to most of the public themselves, which ranges from lice and fleas through blackflies to rats. After that comes the important economic phase, with our friends, the dogs and horses, and our acquaintances, the canaries and homing pigeons, playing their admirable parts. Finally there is the abstract, naturalistic consideration of the wild life which has become wonted to the front of the terrible struggle, and will find it strange when at last silence settles over those wasted deserts and tortured landscapes. I shall refer chiefly to this last aspect of wild life.

Under an intensive barrage or bombardment, almost every form of human activity ceases, in the areas about the front lines. The sole occupations are the aviators who, by their command of the three planes and space, are able to rise above effective fire from Artillery, or if counter flying at low heights can, by sheer speed, avoid danger from machine guns and rifles. Considering the war zone as a whole, much the same thing is true of feral animal life, birds and blueberries, and other creatures of flight being most in evidence. In spite of the months and years of constant noise and flames, gases, and dangers, wild birds have shown an astounding disregard of these supreme efforts of mankind. They soar and volplane, they seek their food, quarrel with one another, carry on their courtship, mate, and rear families in close proximity to the actual fighting and exploding shells. In fact, their numbers have increased near ruined villages, where they nest in the shattered houses, and in cathedrals still smoking from devastating bombardments. Besides this increased nesting facility, and the immunity from disturbance by man, thanks to his preoccupation with his fellow-beings, there is a less pleasant reason for the great numbers of insect-eating birds, which live and thrive in this region. The terrible conditions of sanitation and the numbers of unburied dead in many of the sectors result in a plague of flies, mostly great bluebottles, and these in turn attract the birds—martins, swallows, swifts, and others which find an abundance of food in these hosts of insects.

The intricacies of animal action and re-action can be traced in many ways. In one sector I observed a very great number of scavenger rats—even more than the usual hordes which tear through the dugouts, and scatter the nerves of the pickets by rustling the dried grass in No Man's Land. And correlated with this increase of rodents was an abnormal number of large birds of prey. I saw them perched on the splintered stumps of trees, on the raw ruins of farmhouses and villages, and even on an abandoned tank, which had settled in a hole stern-foremost with the front ruiner high in air. A large hawk, almost as light colored as a gyrfalcon, was perched on the top-most pedal of one of the caterpillar treads, and suddenly I saw it leap into the air, fall over in a most undignified way, catch itself, and fly off at full speed. A hollow sound from the interior explained the cause, a snipe having taken up his station there. The noise of his ride in the hollow tank must have been as terrifying as it was unexpected to the hawk perched just outside.

My introduction to bird life at the front came when I was several thousand feet up, and repassing the front-line trenches. I was looking down through my glasses following the undulations, the sudden twists and accidents of these inconspicuous frontiers of barbarism and civilization, when a tiny black speck crossed my field, above the pale gray of low-lying vapor. I took it at first for a trick of tired vision, until I came again from the opposite direction. A quick twist of finger and thumb and the signal trenches blurred from focus and the black spot became distinct and vibrant—a skylark hovering in an amazing height, quivering in full song. I looked at the compass and down through the cloud lines, and realized that it was a human skylark and that I was over temporary No-Man's Land.—Wm. Brewster in New York Evening Post.

A Multitude of Man.

There is something greater, I think, than its greatest enemy, the appearance of a new power in the world, the appearance of a new type of man on the stage of history, yet the few have acted there alone. This influence is in the air, to the end of time. What have we present in to survive? Perhaps, a glory of an age is often hidden in itself. Perhaps some word has a spher in our day which we have designed to hear, but which is grow clearer and louder through the ages. Perhaps some silent task among up front work in his time whose name is to fill the earth.—William Z. Channing.

A National Debt.

Some people want to win the war but hate to spend the money necessary to that end. A Florida subscriber of Outlook writes of one of these: "An old lady from Bear Creek—a typical Florida cracker, snobbish and all—wondered into my office to-day and during an animated discussion about the war said: 'This country was all right when Uncle Sam was running it, but now Woodrow Wilson has been elected and he has run the country into debt five thousand dollars.'"

Cake as Fuel.

Cake, automatically fed under the boiler, is used for fuel in a new English steam-driven road tractor at great power.

ACTION OF PLANT FOODS

In considering the part played by the plant foods, nitrogen, potash and phosphoric acid in the growth of the plant, it must be kept in mind that all the elements working together are essential to maximum crop production and that even when these are present the results obtained by their use are often very materially affected by cultural and climatic conditions.

It is generally conceded, however, that:

Nitrogen exerts its greatest influence on the amount of foliage, the flowering process, maturing, color, growth, quality and disease resisting power of the plant.

Potash is apparently essential to the formation and transference of starch and other carbohydrates, has an important part in the development of leaves and woody parts of stems, stiffens the stem, stalk and straw, assists in the development of the fleshy parts of fruits and makes the plants more resistant to the attacks of fungus diseases.

Lack of potash results in weak plants, while excessive amounts delay the maturing of the crop.

Phosphoric acid in available form favors rapid development of the young plant, hastens maturity, increases the proportion of grain to straw, assists in developing the grain and is necessary to the development of protoplasm without which there could be no plant growth.—Purdue Experiment Station.

ACID PHOSPHATE HIGHLY PROFITABLE WHEN USED WITH MANURE

Barrenyard manure is deficient in phosphoric acid, and hence is not a balanced food for plants. Additions of this element return much more than their cost on costs of average fertility.

Eight tons of manure per acre has produced a 30-year average yield worth $24 an acre. Acid phosphate costing 35 cents annually has increased the value of the yield to $25 when used in addition to the same quantity of manure.

Animals, take out of their food the phosphorus necessary to build their skeletons or that contained in their milk. Unless the produce of the farm is supplemented with phosphatic fertilizers or food brought in from outside, the soil will become exhausted of phosphorus as crop production continues. Acid phosphate or raw phosphate rock is commonly used at the rate of 40 pounds to a ton of manure.—Ohio Experiment Station.

LIGHT APPLICATIONS OF MANURE BET ON WHEAT

Manure returns most portion when spread lightly over a large area rather than heavily over a relatively small space. Increasing the quantity per acre does not usually result in corresponding gains in crop yields.

Land treated with 4 tons of manure on wheat in a 3-year rotation with potatoes and clover this year returned 45.58 bushels to the acre or 10.82 bushels more than unmanured land. An 8-ton application to wheat in the same rotation returned an increase of 16.13 bushels per acre. Doubling the application of manure increased the gain in wheat only 45 per cent.

Moderate applications of manure on wheat during fall and winter are less likely to smother the plants. A manure spreader is most effective to obtain even, light distribution.—Ohio Experiment Station.

GRIMSBY EAST NEWS

Mr. and Mrs. J. N. Rutten and son, Harold, left here last week for Finton, Prince Edward Co. Mr. Rutten, Mrs. Rutten's father is ill and has been for months. A letter from home last week rather hastened their departure, as they had not intended going quite so soon.

GRIMSBY East has lately had two well known and highly respected residents in the persons of Miss Sarah M. and Miss Gophy Reid, who have gone out to the Province of Saskatchewan, for a year's course. Miss Gophy Reid, who has been teaching at Elmarch, has been very busy.

received a call at a good salary to teach in that Province, which she accepted and began her duties about the first of September. Miss Sarah Reid thought the change and dry atmosphere of that country, would be beneficial to her.

The Maple Leaf for the far West "Saskatchewan."

The apple picking in this section is getting pretty well along, and some good crops have been taken off, especially where the spraying has been done early and well. The apples being clean and of a nice medium size. A few orchards sprayed late were very wormy.
